World Population Day as the name suggests is an annual day observed around the world on 11th July to bring awareness about Population growth and related issues. It is a day set aside to increase awareness about global population issues and the strain it creates on the environment. To gauge the mammoth rise of the Indian population, the most ideal places to visit are Metro stations, airports, malls, railway stations and bus stands. This great awareness event is to bring a population revolution globally as well as breaking sleep of all the deeply slept people to pay their full attention and help in combating this population issue. Much of population increase is among the poorest socio-economic strata. It would be ideal for a country like India to be more progressive in outlook and shed inhibitions when it comes to free distribution of contraceptives and condoms among the poor.

India, the second most populous country in the world, is projected to surpass China by 2025. The growth of population reached nearly one billion in 1830 and second billion in the next 100 years. Thereafter the growth was tremendous for within a span of 30 years it reach 3 billion, the fourth billion in 15 years and the fifth billion in only 12 years. It is predicted to exceed the population at 9 billion by 2050. More than one billion people do not have access to clean drinking water. A total of 2.7 billion find water scarce for at least one month of the year.

A world of 7 billion is both a challenge and an opportunity with implications on sustainability, urbanization, access to health services and youth empowerment.

If we continue to grow in numbers relentlessly, we would be hard-pressed for resources. Land, housing, water, and food would be scarce. Forests and greenery would be history by then. Our quality of life would be poor.

So we have to tackle the population growth right now. It is the responsibility of everyone of us collectively and not just a decision to be made by individuals.

Women have the ability and capacity to change the society. Ensuring that they get good education is very important for the society.

The campaign of the World Population Day every year increases the knowledge and skills of the people worldwide towards their reproductive health and family planning.

Through this great awareness celebration, people are to make aware to know about population issues like importance of family planning towards the increasing population, gender equality, maternal and baby health, poverty, human rights, right to health, sexuality education, use of contraceptives and safety measures like condoms, reproductive health, adolescent pregnancy, girl child education, child marriage, sexually transmitted infections and so many. World Population witnesses a rapid growth in the last 200 years. Countries like China and India together constitutes 37% of the total world population. Population increase is taking away all the developmental results of our nation. Dr. Abdul Kalam had a vision 2020 to see a developed India. We all know it would take a miracle to get there but if we can stabilize population with zero growth rate by 2020 that will certainly lay the foundation. A mission mode strategy will have to be thought of for population stabilization in critical states.

June inflation likely reached highest level in nearly two years

BENGALURU - Indian inflation likely rose to a near two-year high in June, driven by surging oil and food prices, a Reuters poll showed, a development that would strengthen calls for more monetary policy tightening by the Reserve Bank of India. According to a July 4-9 Reuters poll of 37 economists, retail prices rose at an annual 5.30 percent last month. That would be the fastest since July 2016, well above May's 4.87 percent and keep inflation above the central bank's 4 percent target for an eighth straight month. Forecasts for the data, scheduled to be released on July 12 at 1200 GMT, ranged from 4.60 percent to 6.00 percent. A high reading for June should cement expectations for the central bank to raise rates as early as August after its 25 basis points hike last month to try and control potential risks caused by higher inflation.

"Weekly data suggest that both food and fuel inflation picked up further in June," Shilain Shah, senior India economist at Capital Economics, said in a note to clients. "We are penciling in a further slight rise in headline CPI inflation last month." Further ahead, Shah said he expects core inflation to "stay elevated". Global oil prices, which have risen more than 20 percent this year and nearly 13 percent in June, was a major factor behind higher inflation in recent few months as it is India's costliest import. A recent increase in government-mandated prices is currently predicted to add 150 billion rupees ($2.18 billion) to the government's costs, raising concerns over inflation remaining elevated over the coming months. Ahead of the 2019 general election, "there could be an increase in populist spending on schemes which could support farmers' incomes, albeit only temporarily," Tanvee Gupta Jain, an economist at UBS AG, said in a note. Adding to worries, the wholesale price index was forecast to hit a 15-month high of 4.93 percent in June, from 4.43 percent in May. That supports predictions for further policy tightening by the central bank as early as next month.

Samsung opens world's largest mobile phone factory in Noida

Noida, South Korean consumer electronics major Samsung on Monday inaugurated the world's largest mobile phone factory here which will double its annual handset production capacity to 120 million units by 2020. The facility was inaugurated jointly by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and South Korean President Moon Jae-in. The new plant will help the company raise its capacity in a phased manner, from 68 million units at present, to 120 million. The company also launched 'Make for the World' initiative, whereby it aims to export mobile handsets produced in India, to overseas markets. Samsung India CEO HC Hong said: "Our Noida factory, the world's largest mobile factory, is a symbol of Samsung's strong commitment to India, and a shining example of the Government's 'Make in India' programme. Samsung is a long-term partner of India." The company is aligned with government policies and will continue to seek their support to achieve 'dream of making India a global export hub for mobile phones', he said. Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh Yogi Adityanath and Union Culture Minister Mahesh Sharma were present at the event. In June last year Samsung had announced investment of Rs 4,915 crore to add new capacity at the Noida plant in Uttar Pradesh. Set up in 1996, Samsung's Noida factory, is one of the first global electronics manufacturing facilities set up in India. A bigger manufacturing plant, spread over 129,000 sq metres, will help Samsung meet the growing demand for its innovative products and services across the country and also fulfil the company's goal of making India an export hub for the world, Samsung said in a statement. Presently all Samsung mobile phones, including its flagship Galaxy S9, S9+ and Galaxy Note8, are manufactured at its Noida plant. Samsung has another manufacturing unit at Sriperumbudur, near Chennai, five R&D centres and one design centre in India.

Trump picks conservative judge Kavanaugh for U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON - President Donald Trump nominated Brett Kavanaugh for the U.S. Supreme Court on Monday as he aimed to entrench his conservative control for years to come, but the federal appeals court judge faces a tough confirmation fight in the bitterly divided Senate. While some Democrats promised a stern effort to block the 53-year-old Kavanaugh - who has served 12 years on the most influential U.S. appeals court -

Trump's fellow Republicans control the Senate by a narrow margin and can ensure confirmation if they avoid defections from their ranks. If confirmed, Kavanaugh would replace long-serving conservative Justice Anthony Kennedy, who announced his retirement on June 27 at age 81. Kavanaugh became Trump's second lifetime appointment to the nation's highest judicial body in his 18 months in office. Kavanaugh is a well-known figure in Washington and has been involved in some of the biggest controversies of the past two decades. He helped investigate Democratic former President Bill Clinton in the 1990s working for independent counsel Kenneth Starr. He was on Republican George W. Bush's team in the contentious Florida recount fight in the 2000 presidential election, then served as a senior official in Bush's White House.
