

6,600 people living in city 'forcefully evicted' since March 2020, says report

New Delhi, When the country was grappling with the Covid-19 pandemic and people were required to stay home, 6,600 people in the city were rendered homeless due to forced evictions carried out by bodies such as the Delhi Development Authority (DDA), a report released by charitable organisation Housing and Land Rights Network said.

In Delhi, 1,375 families were evicted in demolition actions carried out by the Delhi Development Authority (DDA) and the three municipal corporations to remove encroachments, said HLRN members. Shivani Chaudhry, executive director, HLRN, said, "It is a cause of great concern that during this public health emergency, when the government should be ensuring a secure home for everyone to stay safe, it has been ruthlessly demolishing homes of low-income communities across India and increasing their risk of exposure to the deadly coronavirus."

take place on grounds that the urban and rural poor are 'illegal encroachers' even though they have lived in an area for decades and contributed to its sustainable development." HLRN members said that the numbers could be much higher, as the report consulted data of known cases. A DDA official said every action the land-owning agency takes is legitimate.

Whenever encroachment on the Yamuna floodplains comes to our notice, we take appropriate action under the guidelines laid down by the National Green Tribunal, the official said, requesting anonymity. This point was echoed by BK Oberoi, standing committee chairman of South Delhi Municipal Corporation. "All demolition or eviction work is done under the Delhi Municipal Corporation Act, which empowers the corporations to take action if there is any encroachment on its land or property," Oberoi said. The report said in 2020, close to 173,000 people were evicted as 36,812 homes were demolished across India. Of them, 88,517 people were evicted in the pandemic months (March to December). In 2021, 169,000 people were evicted and 24,400 homes demolished across India till July 31.

"In 2020, we documented that 49% of the people (living in 17,888 homes) lost their homes for ostensible 'environmental' reasons, including from forestland. But forcibly evicting traditional forest-dwellers from their lands not only violates the Forest Rights Act 2006, it is also the recipe for a human rights and ecological disaster. People living in forests know how best to protect them. The government needs to respect their knowledge and uphold their rights," Chaudhary said.

In 2020, 7,689 people were evicted in 73 drives for encroachment removal and beautification, and 8,658 people were pushed out in 33 drives for infrastructure projects across India. "An overwhelming majority of evicted people (87%) did not receive rehabilitation from the government, in the absence of which affected persons have had to make their own provisions or have been rendered homeless. For those who received resettlement, the sites they have been relocated to are remote and devoid of civic and social infrastructure," read a statement by HLRN.

Indian diet fulfills only up to 70% of nutrition need

Ahmedabad, The iconic multivitamin supplement brand Supradyn, from Bayer's Consumer Health Division in India, has released intriguing results from its recent, nationwide doctor-led survey which thoroughly investigates the nutrition needs by an average daily Indian diet. The 'Supradyn Nutrition Survey', released to mark the National Nutrition Week celebrated from 01 - 07 September annually, has found that an overwhelming 85% of doctors and nutritionists from urban India believe that only up to 70%, or in fact even lower, of one's nutrition need is fulfilled by the average daily Indian diet. Sandeep Verma, Country Head, India, Bayer Consumer Health Division, commented on the survey results highlighting, "National Nutrition Week aims to raise awareness on the pivotal role played by wholesome nutrition in leading a happy healthy life. Supradyn's doctor-led Nutrition Survey has identified a surprisingly large nutrition gap in our daily diets, highlighting a grave insufficiency of micronutrients. As a brand that has been focused on bringing science-based solutions to Indians in India, we understand the importance of not only educating them but also supporting them in achieving up to 100% key nutrients for daily immunity and energy with the help of Supradyn Daily Multivitamin supplements." Rajasthan: Congress recommends action against MLA Solanki for cross-voting

Jaipur, The Rajasthan Congress Committee has forwarded the recommendation of the observer appointed for the election of Jaipur Zila Pramuks post suggesting action against party MLA from Chaksu Ved Prakash Solanki to the party high command. The observer in his report stated party chief Govind Singh Dotasra has held Solanki responsible for the party not being able to win the post of Jaipur Zila Pramuks. Senior Congress leader and observer for Jaipur Zila Parishad Pankaj Masih blamed Solanki for the cross-voting. "We have submitted our detailed report with facts and have recommended strict action against Solanki. He betrayed the party," said Masih. A senior leader familiar with the development said the

Amid coal crisis, Rajasthan discontinues supply to UP, reduces to Punjab

Jaipur, Facing a coal shortage, the Rajasthan government cut short its supply of electricity to Punjab and discontinued to Uttar Pradesh, officials said. Though the situation of coal and power generation has improved in the last week, a unit of Kalsindh thermal power plant is shut due to the shortage. The state faced a shortage of coal as the Rajasthan Vidyut Utpadan Nigam (Rajvign) (power generation firm) failed to make payments for coal, and thereafter the supply has become difficult as the coal mines are flooded with water.

shut and the rests have 3-4 days of stock left, HT had learnt. Energy minister BD Kalla, who twice held meetings with the Central officials for an adequate supply of coal, believes that the situation has improved. Kalla said, "The supply crisis was for 5-7 days and now this is being managed properly. The state is receiving around 7 rakes of coal daily from Coal India. Other than these, 9-10 rakes are coming from our allotted coal blocks in Parso, Chhattisgarh. The state requires 20-25 rakes daily for smooth production and maintaining stock."

To deal with the power crisis, the Rajasthan government has previously stopped the supply of electricity to the neighbouring BJP-ruled Uttar Pradesh. Power supply to Congress-ruled Punjab has also been cut short as out of 200 MW, 80 MW of power is being supplied to the state. There has been a complete ban on 600 MW power being given to Uttar Pradesh. August witnessed, undeclared power cuts of 4-5 hours in the state, especially in rural areas, as the electricity demand increased due to poor monsoon.

On discontinuing supply to Punjab and Uttar Pradesh, he said, production is usually in surplus these days (during monsoon), but due to the shortage, the power banking system got affected and the supply to the states was postponed. "As it is in surplus these days, we give supply to states for Kohli cricket ground during Rabi," said Kalla. The minister said the demand during monsoon is less but this time instead of 20 crore units, the demand was 30 crore units. Daily 4.5 rakes are allotted but only 3 were given by the Centre. The crisis only for a week, and similar was the situation in other states such as Bihar, Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh, he added. The state has cleared all the outstanding of coal firms, leaving one, which will be done soon, he said. He informed that in peak hours, between 6 am to 9 am, and 6 pm to 9 pm, the state sometimes needs to purchase electricity. As of August 1, 2021, Rajasthan has to clear an outstanding of 7409 crore to Parso Kanta Collieries Limited (PKCL) while 1375 crore has been paid. A total of 768 crore is to be cleared of Northern Coalfields Limited, 7325 crore is released; 744.6 crore is pending for South Eastern Coalfields, 7530 crore has been released, said an official. Rajasthan has thermal units in district Suratpur with 2160 MW capacity, Kota (1240MW), Chhabra (1320MW), Kalsindh (1200MW), Giral 250MW (Barnar), 270.50MW plant in Jaipur.

VMC eyes mechanised repair of potholes

Ahmedabad : If it goes as planned, bumpy rides on city roads may be history in the coming days and also with promises of long term ease. In a pilot project, VMC Corporation (VMC) is looking to procure a mechanised patching machine - jetpatcher - that uses modern technology.

Officials said that the machine gives maximum output with minimum manpower. The operator gives a guarantee of 18 months on the repaired section and the road becomes usable soon after the work is completed.

The civic body had organised a demonstration of the machine by repairing roads that were damaged in the recent heavy bout of rains in the city. The jetpatcher machine repairs damaged roads quickly and the work done using the machine also lasts long. According to VMC officials, the machine cleans the potholes with a compressor. It then uses an emulsified mix to fill the pothole before it compacts the surface. Unlike manually repaired potholes, there is no difference in the levels in the work done using the machine.

Almost all APMCs financially sound, only around 22 facing some issues, says deputy CM Nitin Patel

AHMEDABAD: Gujarat deputy chief minister Nitin Patel on Thursday said there was no substance in the claims that around 15 agricultural produce market committees (APMCs) have been shut in the state due to negligible business. Patel said that almost all the APMC, except 20 to 22, in the state were financially sound and working properly. A media report has claimed that there was virtually no business activity in approximately 15 APMCs, while around 115 others were on the verge of closure, which has put a question mark on the future of around 3,000 employees. Patel said he held a meeting with state Agriculture Minister R C Faldu and Cooperation Minister Ishwarsinh Patel on Wednesday to review the present financial situation and turnover of over 200 APMCs registered in Gujarat. "There is no substance in the reports, which claim that some APMCs have been shut. All are functioning as of today. In the review meeting, we found that almost all the APMCs are financially sound and working properly," he told reporters in Viramgam town near here after laying the foundation stone for a new APMC. "Only 20 to 22 APMCs, which were established several years back, are facing some issues today because the management did not bother to create new infrastructure or facilities for farmers and traders all these years. Auctions of agri produce are also not happening there. Even traders were not allotted shops in the premises," the deputy CM said. Patel added that such

In Vadodara, swine flu cases start trickling in

Ahmedabad: Even as the city grapples with dengue cases and the fear of Covid-19 third wave, swine flu cases have started surfacing. One person has also lost his life due to the viral flu. Public health officials in the city were much relieved when hardly any swine flu

Covid-19. In 2019, several deaths attributed to the flu had sparked a row. But the 'official' data now available shows that only nine person out of 441 who tested positive have died. "The data of deaths was confirmed by the state government after a death audit. Much like Covid-19, deaths of several swine flu patients that took place primarily due to other reasons were excluded from the official data." The number of cases this year, however, is not being considered alarming by the civic body. "It has become an endemic disease now and cases may keep surfacing," said an 'I'MC' medical officer (health) Dr Devsh Patel.

GSHSEB releases calendar; exams in March 2022

AHMEDABAD: The Gujarat Secondary and Higher Secondary Education Board (GSHSEB) released its academic calendar for secondary and higher secondary schools for 2021-22, according to which board exams for Classes 10 and 12 will be held in March.

The board exams will be held from March 14 to March 30, it said. The first unit test for Classes 9 to 12 will be held from October 18 to October 27. The Diwali vacation will be from November 1 to November 21, according to the calendar. The second session will be from November 22 to May 1. Summer vacations will be from May 2 to June 5. All exams will be held in pen-and-paper format, however, depending on the Covid-19 situation, online exams may be mandated. Schools for Classes 6 to 12 have reopened in a staggered manner beginning on July 7 with Covid-19 restrictions in place. Attendance is not compulsory and online education continues. The government has restricted in-person school attendance at 50%. Last year, GSHSEB decided to reduce the syllabus by 25% due to the pandemic. This year there will be no reduction in the syllabus. The first test will be conducted based on the syllabus taught between June and September.

Preliminary exams for Classes 10 and 12 will be held from January 27 to February 4. Annual exams for Classes 9 and 11 will be from April 11

Roads absent, elderly woman forced to be taken in bedsheet to hospital

Ahmedabad: She was in pain from a fall that she had suffered at her home, but 65-year-old Manjulaben Thakar may have never imagined the undignified manner in which she had to reach for help as rains literally washed up the road to her home. While an 108 emergency ambulance rushed to help Thakar in Timbi village in Jafraabad taluka of Anreli district on Wednesday, non-existent roads made its mission impossible forcing it to wait around half a kilometre away in the village. The woman was finally trundled unceremoniously in the ambulance in a bedsheet by para medical staff with the help of villagers. According to sources, Thakar met with an accident at her home in Timbi village and injured herself. An emergency (108) service ambulance was summoned to take her to a hospital, but rains

Architecture students turn plastic waste into furniture

Ahmedabad: A fun activity of Bhagvan Mahavir University (BMU) students turned into passionate mission to save the environment from plastic waste after its college of architecture developed a full-fledged Eco Park with sculpture and furniture made from the non-biodegradable garbage. Their initial plan to gather 1,000 waste bottles ended in a sizeable collection of 5,000 bottles from which they developed 10 sculptures. Now, they aim to utilize 10,000 bottles for more products. "Not only empty plastic bottles but we are using bottles filled with waste plastic wrappers and polythene bags. Through this we are preventing so much plastic waste from polluting the environment," said Chaitali Shroff, principal of BM college of architecture. The drive to collect empty plastic bottles was started by BMU's eco club, headed by Sanjay Jain. Within a short period, the club collected nearly 5,000 bottles which the architecture college took up as a challenge to turn the waste into a reusable material with longer shelf-life. Soon the team of designers team up with enthusiastic students and hit upon successful ideas like developing a chess game, bench, chandelier, lamp post, bird feeder, and various other fun sculptures. The students took help from the mechanical engineering branch of the university to develop metal frames for their project. "We used scrap metal to develop these sculptures. We are now trying to use metal that has a long life so that the sculpture can be used for a long period," said assistant prof. Anand Parmar. Artist Gajendra Majithia, who is known for developing various sculptures in the city, has assisted the students to design and execute the project. "We are trying to work on sculptures that can be used in public places to create awareness."

'Tech snag costs 3k units Rs 5cr loss daily' lenders cannot make payment due to the rules. We have requested for immediate action with Directorate General of Systems, customs and excise department, RBI and Directorate General of Export Promotion, Navadya added.

"The time limit of 90 days for payment has also ended in September and they have to make the payment at any cost by the end of this month," GIEPC regional office claimed in a press release.

"Local customs office has agreed to provide required documents in physical forms to banks and they have to make payment to give any positive response in this. In those ports, which do not have electronic data interchange (EDI) facility, the payments are made on physical copies of the bill of entry. Considering this as a special case, if RBI allows payment in non-EDI port method, the problem can be solved," states the press release.

Ahmedabad: Nearly 3,000 units engaged in diamond polishing and making jewellery in the city are paying Rs 5 crore as interest daily as the banks of not releasing the payments against import goods worth $1.23 billion during the month of June.

The Gems and Jewellery Export Promotion Council (GJEPC) has raised the issue with the concerned authorities and its office-bearers said multiple emails, reminders and request for meetings have not yielded any result.

"Due to some technical snag in the Import Data Processing and Monitoring System (IDPMS), the bills of entry are not getting reflected on the website of Reserve Bank of India (RBI). As a result, the banks are not releasing payments against the imported goods," said Dinesh Navadya, regional chairman, GJEPC. "The issue is related specifically to the month of June. Nationalized banks are issuing payments but private gives his or her name to buy the idol, the Chavans get confused and have to refer to their old list to find out the granddad's name. "My great grandfather General Nanasheb Shinde first bought Ganesh idol from the Chavans in the 1920s and since then we have been getting our Ganpati murti from them. From the size and weight to the design, nothing has changed in our Ganesh idol in the last 100 years," said Satyaki Shinde, a resident of Navapura.

Many of Chavan's clients recall that their forefathers bought the Ganesh idols for 25 paise a century ago. "My grandfather Tanajirao first ordered Ganesh idol from the Chavans about 70 years ago. We still give his name when we go to the Chavans to take our idol," said Hemant Mohite, a resident of Vadsar.

Vadodara: When devotees walk into this artist's workshop to take home their Ganesh idol in the city, they don't introduce themselves by their name. Rather, they have to give their grandfather or great grandfather's name and only then the Chavan family hands over the Ganesh idol.

Amusing as it may seem but the Chavan family has been following this norm for decades. "We don't recognize our customers by their name. They have to give their grandfather or great grandfather's name before we hand them over the Ganesh idol," said Mangesh Chavan whose family has been making Ganesh idols in the city for a century.

When asked why they follow such a unique norm, Chavan said, "Most of our customers have been ordering Ganesh idols from us for two to three generations. We have a fixed set of customers and we have stopped adding new ones long ago. So, we make limited Ganesh idols every year and hand them over to our clients a couple of days before the Ganesh festival begins."

"My grandfather had kept a list of our customers who ordered Ganesh idols every year and my father continued with the same names as the

SSG nurse to be conferred Florence Nightingale Award

Ahmedabad: She has worked without a single day off during Covid-19 pandemic. In fact, she was among the first in nursing staff at Central Gujarat's biggest hospital — SSG Hospital — in Vadodra to handle a Covid-19 positive mother and her newborn when almost everyone feared the deadly virus. Two years ago, when most wards were heavily waterlogged, she along with resident doctors and support staff ensured that the gynaecology and obstetrics department continued to function. On September 15, her dedication to the profession will be recognized as President Ram Nath Kovind will confer the prestigious National Florence Nightingale Award 2020 virtual on Bhanumati Gheewala fondly called sister Bhanuben. The Indian Nursing Council, Central Gujarat's statutory body under a Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, confers the award to recognize the contribution of healthcare workers. The 56-year-old head nurse performs her duty six days a week at the government hospital and on the seventh day she provides her voluntary services at Ramkrishna Mission to support their child welfare activities. Bhanuben who joined as a nurse in 1988 underwent training in gynaecology speciality at Chandigarh in 2000 and
